SELECT MISCELLANY.

THE PLOT AGAINST HAWLEY.

CHAPTER I.

HOW THE PLOT ORIGINATED.

Near noon, the 5th of September, 1852, a man laboring under great excitement was walking hurriedly up Boadway, New York. His features were flushed and convulsed; his glances wild and restless, his whole mien indicative of keen anguish.

Turning to the right into Bleecker street, he soon reached a plain three story and basement brick house, to which he gave himself admittance.

"Are you there, Ruth?" he called from the hall.

A step was heard overhead followed by the rustling of a dress, and a young lady descended the front stairs. Despite several points of marked contrast, there was a family likeness about the couple that proclaimed them brother and sister.

"Why, what's the matter, Luke?" cried the latter, starting at sight of the disturbed countenance that met her view. "Are you ill?"

"I've just received bad news," replied the brother, leading the way into the parlor—"news which has given me a terrible shock."

"Shocked? You! What has happened?"

"In a word, Clara Aymar is married!"

"Married!" echoed the sister, recoiling. "Clara Aymar married! Is it possible?"

"Yes, married! the girl I've been laying siege to for years past—the only girl I ever cared for. Imagine the shock this event gives me. I'm nearly crazy."

"Then you really loved her?"

"Loved her! I must have worshipped her, or else this thing would not have so completely upset me."

"Oh, as to that, the loss of a thing always gives us an exaggerated notion of its value," said the sister philosophically, as she sank languidly into an easy chair, and smoothed out a fold in her showy morning robe. "You are simply shocked, as you say. But, by to-morrow, you will laugh at the whole matter."

"Don't Ruth!" implored the brother, sinking heavily into the nearest chair. "Clara Aymar is more to me than my life! My love for her is a delirium! It's no such passing fancy as you suppose, but everlasting passion—a rage—a flood of molten lava! And I've counted all along upon marrying her. True, she has rejected me twice, but I thought she'd change her mind—"

"She was in no way committed to you?"

"No, of course not. She has never given me any encouragement. But I am none the less surprised. I supposed that everything was favorable enough to my wishes. I knew that she was still young to marry—an orphan—without money and without friends—presumably without suitors, and I flattered myself that she couldn't always remain insensible to my attentions."

"You reasoned wisely enough, of course, Luke; but reason never decides these matters," declared the sister, with a sort of contemptuous compassion. "A whim—a chance meeting—a smile or a word—a moment's weakness—any trifle—these are the things by which marriages are brought about. But who is the bridegroom?"

"Ah! that's a point that will touch you a little, I think. Can't you guess who he is?"

"I haven't the least idea."

"Well then, he's Will. Hawley."

The sister sprung abruptly to her feet, clasping both hands to her heart. The changing colors of her brother, his agitation, his anguish, all passed to her own features.

"Will. Hawley?" she gasped. "Oh, you don't mean it, Luke?"

"But I do though. It's God's truth. Clara Aymar and Will. Hawley are husband and wife."

A heavy fall succeeded. The sister had fainted. She lay upon the floor as one dead.

"Did she think that much of Hawley?" muttered the brother astonished. "I didn't suppose—"

He hastened to bring a pitcher of water and bathe the white features, and set himself to chafing the clenched hands.

Capt. Luke Pedder was twenty-seven years of age, with an originally light complexion, which had reddened with generous living and bronzed with exposure to wind and sun. His form was of the average size and height, and his features of the most ordinary type. He was singularly selfish and unscrupulous, but of gentlemanly manners, being well educated and used to good society. His ability as a navigator was fair for a man of his age and experience, but he owed his position as commander of a fine Australian clipper, more to respect for his late father and to sympathizing favor than to his own merits.

Miss Ruth Pedder was two years younger than her brother, and consequently twenty-five years of age, although she owned to only twenty. She was tall, thin, and a little inclined in her outlines, as in her temper, to angularity. She was not particularly bright, but she was bold and unscrupulous, and possessed a fierce energy which was capable of compensating in any emergency for lack of genius.

The father of the couple had been a prominent ship-owner and merchant. But in his latter days the senior Pedder had been unfortunate, and had finally been broken up completely—a result hastened, it was whispered, by the wild ways and financial irregularities of his son. The old man's failure had soon been followed by his death, and already—for such is fame!—he was generally forgotten.

"How odd it is!" ejaculated Capt. Pedder, as he rubbed his sister's cold hands. "She madly in love with Will. Hawley, and I crazy after Clara Aymar! And now Will. and Clara are married, and Ruth and I are left out in the cold."

Under the vigorous treatment he had adopted, Miss Pedder soon recovered her senses.

"Are you sure they're married?" she demanded.

"Perfectly. I learned the fact half an hour since from Hawley's commander—Captain Greggs, you know. Captain Greggs was at the wedding. It took place last Friday evening—the very evening after Hawley's return from his last voyage to Rio. It was a quiet affair. Only a few friends were invited. But let me ask you a question. Did Hawley ever promise to you?"

"No. But I expected that he would soon do so. He has been here often enough—"

"Yes, he came several times to ask me for a berth in my clipper. I promised to think of him at the first opening, and I really meant to help him, for I knew in a general way that you liked him."

"I thought he'd realize that you could be of service to him," explained Miss Pedder. "I thought he'd remember that mother left me this house and a few thousand dollars to do as I pleased with. I was conscious, too, that I possessed a fair share of personal attractions. And as I supposed him to be entirely heart-free, I took it for granted that I should get him. His attentions seemed marked enough—"

"He treated you politely, of course," interrupted Pedder, "and he couldn't have well done less, after asking me to befriend him. But he never made any formal declaration?"

"No, he didn't. As mate of a Rio ship, he was away seven-eights of the time, and I didn't expect a regular courtship. But I took it for granted—"

Pedder made an impatient gesture.

"We've deceived ourselves," he muttered. "We've been carried away by our feelings. The girl's rejection of me was really intended to be final, and Hawley's visits here were merely visits of business and friendship. But why Clara should prefer Hawley to me I can't imagine," added Pedder, drawing himself up haughtily. "Hawley has neither name, nor money, nor position!"

Nor can I see why Hawley should

Beaver, Pa., July 3d, 1872.

SENATOR Sumner, though in no sense committed to Greeley, was interviewed last Friday by a newspaper reporter, and among other things told the Bohemian that he now regarded the election of Greeley as certain.

THINGS political, are in a stew in Allegheny county. Mr. Hare, the Republican nominee for Sheriff, it seems is unacceptable to a large number of the Republicans of the county, hence Wm. M. Gormley esq. has been invited to become a candidate for that office by several hundred of his fellow-citizens, and accepts the invitation. The disposition is pretty general this year to strike at unworthy candidates wherever they are found.

A WASHINGTON DISPATCH states that a demand for funds has already been made by the Pennsylvania Republican State Central Committee on the National Committee to assist in carrying the election in October. It is put on the plea that a defeat in October means a defeat for Grant in November. But Grant, it is stated, is opposed to contributing for the October election on the ground that there is a split in the party, and that all the sinews of war should be reserved for the November contest.

THE Illinois Liberal Republican State Convention met at Springfield on Wednesday last. Gov. Palmer was chosen temporary chairman, and delivered an address. After the appointment of the usual committees, a letter from Hon. Carl Schurz was read, closing as follows: "Although I cannot be with you to-morrow, I hope to be able to co-operate with you in the course of the present canvass." On motion the Cincinnati platform was unanimously adopted.—The Cincinnati candidates were endorsed amid great enthusiasm. A Committee from the Democratic Convention reported that it had adopted the report of the Conference Committee. An invitation to meet the Democratic Convention was accepted, and the Convention adjourned for that purpose.

THE Illinois Democratic State Convention met at Springfield, Wednesday last. Gen. McClernand, from the Committee of Conference appointed by the Convention to meet a similar committee from the Liberal Republican Convention, submitted the following ticket for State officers, as agreed upon by the joint Conference Committee: For Governor, Gustavus A. Koerner, of St. Clair; Lieutenant Governor, General Charles Black, of Champaign; Secretary of State, Edward Rummell, of Peoria; Auditor of State, Daniel O'Hara, of Cook; State Treasurer, Charles H. Lanfair, of Sangamon; Attorney General, Lawrence Weldon, of McLean; Clerk of Supreme Court, first grand division, R. A. D. Wilbanks, of Jefferson; Clerk of Supreme Court, second division, David A. Brown. Of the nominees on the State ticket, those for Governor, Secretary of State and Attorney General are Liberal Republicans. Those for Lieutenant Governor, Auditor and Treasurer are Democrats. The candidates for Clerk of the Supreme Court in the first and second divisions are Democrats. The candidate in the third division is a Liberal Republican. The delegates to the National Democratic Convention at Baltimore, were instructed to cast their votes for Greeley and Brown.

A SHARP bit of practice is that in which the Cameron people of this State are now engaged. They had for nearly a year past been busily engaged in "setting up" General Hartranft's nomination for Governor, and after the adjournment of the State Convention they were not tardy in pointing out his success as an exhibition of their own strength in Pennsylvania. Now, however, they find it necessary to pipe a different tune. They have made the discovery that the great body of the Republicans of the State regard his nomination as one unfit to be made, and they accordingly wheel about and declare they had nothing at all to do with making it. They allege now that he worked out his own nomination, when the facts show that every "Cameron man" who happened to be a delegate in the Convention voted for him "first, last and all the time." A lively appreciation of the "wrath to come," frequently works marvelous changes, in people's minds, and this is clearly one of them.

THE Commissioners for the improvement of the Ohio river, appointed by the Governors of several States, under a resolution adopted by the River Improvement Convention last winter, were in session in Cincinnati Thursday last. The following is a list of the persons appointed: Indiana, O. P. Cable, Charles H. Mason, August Lemcke; Ohio—V. B. Morton, Robert Martin, Ben. Eggleston, Thos. Sherlock, J. K. Peebles; Pennsylvania—J. K. Moorhead, J. K. Kerr, J. Walker, Edmund Blanchard, Thomas Powers; West Virginia—John McClure, Thomas Sweeney, W. Poole, J. S. King, J. P. Hall. Of this number but ten were present. An organization was effected by electing General Moorhead, chairman, and Captain B. Sautmeyer, Secretary. The smallness of the number present appears to have arisen from some want of general advertising, and will prevent the meeting taking such action as they otherwise would. Another session occured Friday, and a memorial was adopted. It was agreed, however, that another meeting should be held on the 18th of September.

OFFICIAL reports to the Indian Bureau from the Indian country represent that the Kiowa Indians are reported to have left their reservation and gone to Texas on a marauding expedition, but that they will be forced to return without interference of the military. The Cheyennes and Arrapahoes are afraid that in the suppression of the expedition of the Kiowas, their own tribes may innocently suffer. With this view, they have remonstrated with the Kiowas, and threaten that unless the latter abandon their trip into Texas, they (the Cheyennes and Arrapahoes) will combine and declare war against the Kiowas. It is the belief of the Indian agents that these threats will be successful, and that the few Kiowas now in Texas will immediately retreat to their reservation.

THE Philadelphia Press, the leading organ of the Administration in this State, contains the following article touching State Treasury matters in Pennsylvania:

The Camerons now own and control the State Treasurer. They are his principal bondsmen, and reap the largest portion of the aggregate of gains secured by banking with the funds of the Commonwealth. Directly and indirectly, Simon Cameron, his son Donald, and his brother William, are the principal shareholders in a bank respectively at Lewisburg, Northumberland, Harrisburg, Middletown, West Chester, Lancaster, Lebanon and Reading. The banks of Harrisburg and Middletown are controlled by the Camerons, Donald being a paid officer in each, while the others do his work. These banks have deposits of State funds aggregating at least half a million of dollars. All checks for small amounts of money paid by the State Treasurer are drawn on the Cameron bank. You see by these facts why the Camerons are so anxious to have Hartranft elected Governor. The Secretary of the Commonwealth is a member, in conjunction with the State Treasurer and Auditor-General, of the Sinking Fund. That office, in case Hartranft is elected, will be dictated by Cameron, and then, with an Auditor General in their interest, and a Treasurer whose election they can purchase, the resources in the Sinking Fund remain within their grasp and use. For this reason the last Legislature was manipulated to prevent Geary from appointing an Auditor-General who might have been inimical to Cameron's interests, and therefore, to cover up a long secreted series of stupendous frauds Hartranft's time of office was extended. Second, The Camerons are State Treasurer Mackey's principal bondsmen. By a Philadelphia broker's failure Mr. Mackey lost a fraction less than $100,000. He is a poor man. But his loss had to be made up. How was this to be done? Not by the Camerons. Hence Mackey opens a check on a Pittsburgh bank for the amount lost by the failure of the Philadelphia broker, which check was never cashed, but deposited in the vault of the Treasury, where it yet remains, with innumerable other similar papers all counted as cash, when they really are not worth a farthing more than their weight in the ragman's scales. The vaults of the State Treasury is the most polluted locality in the State Government, and in its dark and impenetrable recesses are more frauds hidden than those which damned the Tammany Ring of New-York, all of which the Camerons are resolutely determined shall not be exposed. If they can get Mackey's accounts sealed at the expiration of his present term, and his vault accounts turned over as cash to his successor, whoever that may be, it will ease the Camerons not less than $100,000, and for aught I now know, it may save them from paying double that sum.

If these thing are untrue, why are they not disproved by the Cameron papers of the State? If, on the other hand, they are facts, is it not the plain duty of every honest man to vote against a longer continuance of such a wretched state of affairs, at the October election?

A LATE Denver Tribune says, editorially, that various correspondents to that paper in Southern Colorado and New Mexico state that extensive and combined depredations are seriously apprehended in the sparsely settled posts in those Territories. The Kiowas, Arraphoes, Cheyennes, Comanches, Navajoes and Apaches held frequent councils during the past winter, at which it was endeavored to dissipate all tribal prejudices, and effect a combination for a general Indian war. Recent murders and robberies in New Mexico, Arizona, Texas and other places, were referred to as evidence of the intent of the Indians, but whether a complete combination has been affected is not yet known. The Tribune further states that a letter from a prominent United States officer, dated Fort Lee, June 12, says the warriors of the Apaches, Cheyennes and Arraphoes, are organizing ostensibly for an attack on the Utes, of Colorado, but the officer thinks a raid on the frontier is really their object. The Government authorities are doing all they can to break up the movement.

THE Independent Greeley and Brown, the Liberal Republican, and the German Executive Committee of New-Orleans have issued an address declaring that, inasmuch as the two conventions recently held in that city failed to unite the conservative political elements in the State, some action is necessary to combine all of the opposition to State and national corruption. They therefore call a convention to meet in New-Orleans, on the first Monday in August, for the purpose of a thorough organization of all who desire reform, and of nominating an Electoral, a State, and a Congress ticket, "under the banner of national and State Reform and the leadership of Greeley and Brown." The address is signed by the names of the three committees, and is indorsed by a list of nearly 3,000 names of citizens of Louisiana, which fill nearly five columns of The N. O. Times.

A CALL has been issued for a convention of the Irish-American League, to be held in Baltimore July 9, to complete the work began in Cincinnati in May last. Each branch of the League is invited to send one delegate, and all Liberal Irish-American political associations are requested to send representatives to assist in perfecting measures for a systematic support of Greeley and Brown. The call is signed by the following-named members of the Executive Committee: Gen. George M. O'Brien, Nebraska; Major M. Poland, Kentucky; Thos. Leonard, Kansas; William J. Nicholson, New Jersey; Thomas F. Meagher, Vermont; John S. Mullen, Montana; James Brennan, Iowa; James J. Rogers, New York; Chairman of National Committee, and John M. McCafferty, Missouri. Secretary.

MR. ERRETT authorizes us to contradict the story of the Philadelphia Press that he admitted the impending defeat of Hartranft—and alleging that the Republican party is even more distracted on Grant than on the State Ticket. It was scarcely necessary that he should dignify it by any attention.—Radical.

Whereupon the Pittsburgh Leader responds as follows:

"If Rugsel Errett did not say what Forney says he said, namely, that Hartranft would be whipped in October, he would have suffered nothing in prophetical reputation had he been in less haste to disclaim the prediction. Nor, for that matter, would he have lost anything in Republican standing by admitting the impeachment. That Hartranft stands a remarkably good chance of defeat, Mr. Errett, as a shrewd and experienced politician, must see. And that scores and hundreds of the best Republicans of Allegheny county, not only believe Hartranft will be defeated, but hope so, and intend to cast their votes so as to accomplish that end, is patent to every man who goes among his fellow men and hearkens to their outspoken opinions. If Errett didn't make that prediction, plenty other prominent Republicans have made it."

HERE AND THERE.

—The fourth trial of Mrs. Cleln, charged with the murder of Jacob Young and his wife, in Indianapolis, in September, 1869, has just been concluded at Lebanon, Ind. The verdict is guilty of the first degree, and imprisonment in the penitentiary for life.

—A Havana letter states officially the announcement of the escape of the steamer Edgar Stuart, and holds the United States accountable for the landing of arms for the Cubans. Two cargoes of slaves were recently landed on the island, one of which was for a Colonel of Spanish volunteers.

—Advices from Peru report that an insurrection was attempted at Lima, in consequence of the election. The troops were called out and fired on the rioters, and the outbreak was suppressed. The Government had suspended the publication of hostile journals and imprisoned their editors.

—The well-known Lantern of Demosthenes in the park of St. Cloud, near Paris, destroyed by the Prussians during the war, is about to be re-built as before. It is the exact reproduction of a small marble edifice at Athens, purchased by the Capuchin monks, and casts of which had been brought to Western Europe.

—A special from Montamoras states that the revolutionary General Trevino, is reorganizing his troops at Monterey. Several places in Nuevo Leon have pronounced against the revolutionists. Cevallas expects to move against Monterey with the government forces in a few days. A rumor is current that a large body of revolutionists are moving at Matamoras.

—Two Cuban Majors were recently captured by one Gonzales and the Spanish troops whom he left to their camp, he recently having surrendered to the Spanish. Both Cubin officers were executed. Other Cubin officers have surrendered, and a band of sixty of them have gone on a raid against their former companions. The Cubins in Havana are much exercised at the defection of Gonzales and others.

—A Capuchin Monk, lately dead in Paris, is accredited with the following last will and testament: "I bequeath—1st, to the Abbe Michaud, my breviary, because he does not know his own; 2dly, to M. Jules Favre, my frock, to hide his shame; 3dly, to M. Gambetta, my cord, which will prove useful one day round his neck; 4thly, to M. Thiers, his own work, that he may read it over again; and 5thly, to France, my wallet, because she may shortly have occasion for one to collect alms."

—The Latter-day Saints who go as missionaries to Denmark have the hardest kind of time of it. The Government has issued an order that all Mormon preachers shall be tied up and soundly flogged, under the superintendence of village magistrates; and one of the Apostles has actually been treated in that uncompromising way. We trust that he will not appeal to our Government for redress. One more foreign muddle would just about finish us.

—Some capitalists of Belgium have built an enormous hotel for the sole use of their employes. For about thirty-five cents a day, a man can get a comfortable room, good meals, only one of which, however, is of meat, and a certain amount of washing during the week. It is as yet uncertain whether the experiment will pay. Whether or not it will directly, it will certainly do so indirectly, by making the men more efficient, and by creating strong bonds of union between them and their employers.

—How refreshing it is to read of that party of gentlemen who went from New York to a point in Maine, a hundred miles or so north of Portland. On Friday last the heat was almost intolerable. That day the party left on their return. After riding a few miles they stopped to engage in a game of snow-ball, at a drift of enormous dimensions. Two miles further on they stopped for the night, and at that place the mercury that day had marked 105 degrees in the shade. The drift in question was seventy-five feet high when formed in the winter, and it bids fair to last the rest of the summer. This mass of snow is so phenomenal to that part of Maine that the people propose to celebrate its presence by a pic-nic on the Fourth of July, to which the denizens of more temperate regions will be welcome. From all accounts, it is reasonable to infer that Maine had its full share of snow last winter. No one there complains of dry streams or low springs.

It is pretty hard when a man declares over his own signature that he is dead, that the incredulous should scoff at his statement. E. H. Tascott, lawyer of Tallahassee, Fla., disappeared the other day, leaving in his trunk, which didn't contain much else an effecting letter, the purport of which was that declining health and financial troubles had driven him to seek the relief of the grave. "Nobody," said Mr. Tascott, "will know where my body lies." Whereupon the local newspapers heartlessly say: "Those who know him best allege that he is not such a fool, and that he is at present in Texas." A strong argument in support of this theory is that he left North Carolina in the same way. Gentlemen intent upon suicide should remember this case, and do the business in a way about which there can be no mistake.

DR. The Franklin Repository, the champion of the people on the border who sustained damages from the rebel raiders, does not like Gen. Harry White as a Congressional candidate. Referring to the allegation that Gen. Allen proposes to withdraw from the State ticket the Repository says: Whether Harry White will be equally regardful of the interests of the party in the October election we cannot say. We have seen no intimation from a reliable source that he is willing to make any personal sacrifice for the good of the party, and we have little faith in his willingness to withdraw. He is vain and conceited, and like all men of his description, believes himself immensely popular with the people.—So extremely objectionable is he to the majority of the Republican voters of the county that it would be folly in any one to ask him to support him, and we shall not be guilty of it. He richly deserves defeat, but if he remain on the ticket our course will be to let him alone.

A BOLD AND DARING STEP.

The National Administration Requested to Decapitate all the Men Holding Office in our State who oppose Hartranft and Allen — President Grant holding the Despotism at bay.

WASHINGTON, June 24, 1872.

War has commenced in earnest between the ring of your State and its opponents. The king of the Pennsylvania Tammany organization has let his wrath get the better of him and is now preparing to wreak vengeance upon all who have dared to oppose him or expose his schemes. The programme has been arranged, and every effort to carry it out will be made.

THE RING'S DECISION.

Hartranft and Allen must be elected and all the other ring measures accomplished, no matter what the consequences may be. The first step to be taken by the men who have held sway in Philadelphia and Harrisburg for years is to urge the decapitation of the honest office holders who are known to be against them and their movements.

A BOLD MOVE.

It has just been started here on pretty good authority that General Simon Cameron has already made the demand for the removal of all the men now holding office who are suspected of lack of enthusiasm for two of those on the State ticket.

THE PRESIDENT'S POSITION.

Whether this be true or not makes little difference, for it is well known that, no matter what representations the ringsters may make to the President, he will not interfere in the local politics of the State. He has already announced his determination to let the people decide for themselves in October, and nothing can move him from his purpose. If such a request as that above stated has been made no attention will be paid to it, and the prime movers in the matter will likely be more discomfitted than ever.

THE WRATH TO COME.

No one doubts for a moment that some other manner of obtaining revenge will be resorted to, and that every means possible will be brought to bear to whip into the support of the obnoxious candidates all who have thus far been outspoken against them. What the next move will be it is impossible to foretell, the "workers," as they are called, keeping all things secret.

THEIR REASONS.

In another part of this week's paper is a letter from Harrisburg, which may not inexpressively be termed the "Ring's reasons" for desiring the continued candidacy and election of certain men upon the State ticket folsted upon the Republicans of Pennsylvania on the 10th of April last. It is the first chapter of a history of long-concealed bribery and corruption, which it may be necessary, if this campaign is conducted to its close under present auspices, to give in circumstance and detail.

To the first revelation we ask the attention of every Republican who has at heart the integrity of the Commonwealth and the honor of his party. There have been suspicions of the facts we make public afloat for a long time. At Harrisburg last winter they were the gossip of the lobbies, and to-day they are known in the editorial rooms of a score of journals in every part of the State.—Before long they may become the scandal of the nation.

It is unnecessary to picture to our readers the deep danger and disgrace that threaten the State and party if these guilty men be allowed to continue their rule. We all remember the sequel to Tammany, and in Philadelphia we have had a foretaste of what we may expect if we surrender our entire independence to the cry of party, which the thieves who fatten on the organization raise whenever they are menaced by the honest indignation of the people. In crisis like these no man is safe.

But it is not yet too late to retrieve the blunders and crimes of the Harrisburg Convention; to reunite and harmonize the now divided and despairing elements of our party, and to infuse into the State campaign an energy and enthusiasm like unto that of the days when Andrew G. Curtin led our hosts, and we fought with the ballot for the same cause our soldiers were fighting for on the battle-field under Grant and Sheridan. On national issues and the November struggle we have no fear. Grant and Wilson are certain to carry the State. Harry White has stated that he will retire from his candidacy as a member of Congress at large, and the Cumberland Valley Journal, Mechanicsburg, which opposes the ticket, declares that it has the best authority for saying that General Todd positively declines to be a candidate, and, as our State is entitled to another member under the supplementary apportionment bill, three new candidates have to be named, which is entirely too responsible a duty for the State Central Committee to perform, and for which a new convention should be called. The gentlemen whose nomination has evoked the indignant protest of tens of thousands upon the most devoted members of the party ought to infer their duty under the circumstances.—Forney's Press.

Judge Davis Declines the "Labor Reform" Nomination.

CHICAGO, June 27.—The following is a copy of a letter sent by Hon. David Davis to the President of the Columbus Convention, declining the Presidential nomination:

"BLOOMINGTON, ILL., June 24, 1872.

"Hon. E. M. Chamberlin, President of the Columbus Convention, Boston, Mass.:

"MY DEAR SIR—The National Convention of Labor Reformers, on the 22d of February last, honored me with a nomination as their candidate for the Presidency. Having regarded that movement as the initiation of a policy and purpose to unite the various political elements in a compact opposition, I consented to the use of my name before the Cincinnati Convention, where a distinguished citizen of New York was nominated. Under these circumstances, I deem it proper to retire absolutely from the Presidential contest, and thus leave the friends who were generous enough to offer me their voluntary support free to obey their convictions of duty unfettered by any supposed obligation. Sympathizing earnestly with all just and proper measures by which the conditions of labor may be elevated and improved, I am, with great respect, your fellow citizen,

"DAVID DAVIS."

GENEVA TRIBUNAL.

The English Case in the Hands of the Arbitrators.

GENEVA, June 27.—The court of arbitration reassembled this forenoon. Lord Tertenden, on behalf of the British government, handed in the English case to the arbitrators, and after a brief session the court adjourned until Friday forenoon. It is stated on authority that the British case, as now submitted, is of a very favorable nature, and that the arbitration will proceed without further hindrance. Both the American and British agents entertain hopes of an early and favorable conclusion to the conference. Important action is expected to be taken by Count Schopis and his co-arbitrators when the court re-assembles to-morrow. It is the general belief that negotiations will not now be further delayed by any obstacles such as those which have hitherto so greatly impeded its progress.

LONDON, June 27.—In the house of commons this afternoon Gladstone announced that Grant had accepted the arbitrators' decision that the indirect claims were inadmissable according to international laws, and had withdrawn the claims. England had therefore withdrawn her motion for adjournment.

Gen. Logan and His Dirty Work.

While the sonorous voice of Senator John Logan is heard throughout the land denouncing such Republicans and true friends of humanity as Horace Greeley and Charles Sumner it is well to recall his musical cadences of 1859, in declaiming against these same champions of freedom. In December of that year Mr. Logan was a member of the House of Representatives, and delivered in that body a speech, some passages of which will be read with interest at this time. Mr. Logan proclaimed:

I was born a Democrat, and all my life I have learned to believe that the Democratic party in national convention never do wrong. I have never known the Democratic party in national convention to indorse a platform that was not consistent with my views. * * * The gentleman from Illinois (meaning himself) holds that the territories of this country were purchased by the common blood and common treasure of the common people, and they are as free to the South as to the North, to the East as to the West, and that there is no restriction upon the constitution to prevent men from carrying property of any description upon that soil. * * * The gentlemen from Illinois (still meaning himself) holds to the constitutional guarantee to the people of the slave-holding States, and to the law passed by Congress for the purpose of reclaiming the fugitive slaves. The gentlemen from Illinois also holds that it is the duty of every good citizen to assist in carrying out that law as one of the laws of our common country, and that the man who refuses to do so is not a patriot. * * * Every fugitive that has been arrested in Illinois, or in any of the Western States—and I call Illinois a Western State, for I am ashamed longer to call it a Northern State—has been made by Democrats. In Illinois the Democrats have all that work to do. You call it the dirty work of the Democratic party to catch fugitive slaves for the Southern people. We are willing to perform that dirty work.

Thus a little more than ten years ago, while Horace Greeley and Charles Sumner were laboring to free a race from the bondage of slavery, John Logan was hunting up the poor refugees and boasting, in the face of the world, of his abject debasement.

THE Illinois Liberal Republican Convention met at Springfield on Wednesday last. Gov. Palmer was chosen temporary Chairman and delivered an address. After the appointment of Committees, the following letter from Hon. Carl Schurz was read:

"ST. LOUIS, June 25.—My Dear sir: I regret to say that it will be impossible for me to attend the Convention of the Liberals of Illinois to-morrow. I arrived here last night from the East, and find an accumulation of business which demands my immediate attention. Besides I desire to address my constituents here before taking part in the campaign elsewhere. You have my earnest wishes in your endeavors to rally for united action all the elements of the opposition to that system of policy which is now controling the government and people of this republic, and which now unappropriately has been called "Grantism." [Applause.] It is time that the people of the North and South be once more bound together by the inspiring consciousness of a common nationality, of common rights and of common duties, and to this end it is necessary that the traditional barriers be broken down, and that the policy of force by which the embers of civil strife are assiduously fanned, and the bitter feelings of past offenses are kept alive for partisan advantages, give way to the moral agencies of conciliation and fraternal intercourse, without which our Republican system cannot long endure. [Applause.] It is time that the despotism of party spirit is broken, which, in the shape of personal government, rules our national legislation, and the present organization of office holders, debauched with corruption, demoralizes and subjugates public opinion and stands in the way of every true and thorough reform. And to this end it is necessary that the embodiment of real despotism, the present administration, be defeated in its efforts to continue in power, and that thus a free field be opened for a reformatory movement, untrammelled by selfish partisan control. [Applause.] Whether we be able to accomplish all we desire or not, we certainly can accomplish this, if for that purpose we unite in an energetic effort; and our success will be a great step in the right direction. Although I cannot be with you to-morrow, I hope to be able to co-operate with you to that end in the course of the present canvass.

"Very respectfully,
"C. SCHURZ."

AN OUTRAGE.

A Captured American Schooner Degraded in Canada—The Captain of a New Dominion Dug-out Turning the American Flag Union Down, with the Dominion Flag Above It.

A Washington despatch to the Herald says: The State Department has received despatches from George H. Holt, our Consul at Gaspe Basin, Canada, informing our Government that on the 18th inst., the American schooner James Bliss was seized by the Dominion cutter Stello Marie, off Anticosti Island, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, for alleged violation of the Domion laws in regard to inshore fishing. The schooner James Bliss was taken to Gaspe, where she arrived on Thursday last. As she entered the port it was observed that the Dominion flag was flying from the peak of the Bliss, over the American flag, the latter with union down. Consul Bliss was immediately notified of the insult, and, on satisfying himself that it was as represented, he informed our Secretary of State that the conduct of the Dominion authorities had been scandalous in the extreme. Mr. Fish then asked for the full particulars, and yesterday received a despatch from Consul Holt that the commander of the Stella Marie, upon receipt of his protest, had repeated the insult, hoisting the dominion flag over the American, the union still upside down. Consul Holt then applied to the highest Canadian official, and repeated that the conduct of the commander of the Dominion cutter was insulting to the United States, and that he must object, in the name of his government, to such conduct. The commander of the cutter replied that he was compelled to obey instructions, and that the protest of the United States Consul was not worth the paper it was written on.

Finding that our flag was still insulted, Consul Holt appealed to Captain Lavoie, the superior of Commander Lachance and directed his attention to the mortifying spectacle of the Dominion flag flying at the masthead of the Bliss, with the American flag underneath, and asked him in the name of decency to have the fault rectified at once. After discussing the right of the Dominion authorities to do as they pleased, Lavoie said that he was bound to obey orders, and if an American vessel violated the laws of the Dominion, the flag of the United States was no protection to it, and the Dominion authorities were at liberty to do as they pleased. Consul Holt replied that the Dominion authorities were at liberty to send the claim to the schooner Bliss before the Admiralty Court, but there was no nation on the face of the earth that could insult the flag of his country without making proper explanation, and that he should immediately report the full particulars to his government. Our Consuls-General, Wm. A. Dart, at Montreal, and F. L. G. Struve, at Quebec, were at once informed of the matter, and await further instructions. It is understood that the insult was premeditated, and that it is sustained by the highest Dominion authority. Secretary Fish, when his attention was called to it, remarked:

"It amounts to nothing. Some hair-brained Dominion official thinks he can make trouble by insulting our flag. We have become accustomed to such insolence."

The State Department is advised that the colonial fishermen are getting impatient to have the treaty put into operation, as it will give them free markets for their fish in the United States, and they are well pleased whenever any indignity is offered to the United States fishing vessels, thinking that it will hasten negotiations.

THE SECRETARY of War issued an order directing that pursuant to an act of Congress of June 10th, 1872, the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands will be discontinued from and after the 30th of June, 1872, and after that date all business relating in any way to said bureau, exclusive of the Freedmen's Hospital and Asylum at Washington, with all accounts and claims connected therewith, of whatever character or date, or wherever incurred, will be conducted through the Adjutant General of the army, to whom all records, checks and treasury certificates, or amounts received therefrom, and all other funds, paper and property, will be delivered by the 1st of July, proximo, at such place as the Adjutant General may designate. After the 30th of June all business relating in any way to the Freedmen's Hospital and Asylum at Washington, with all accounts connected therewith, of whatever character or date, will be conducted through the Surgeon General of the army, to whom all records, papers, funds and property will be turned over by the 1st of July. Agents, clerks and other employees whose services may not be required by the Adjutant General and Surgeon General, in effecting the transfer, will be discharged on the 30th of June, and all others as soon as the transfer is completed.

☞ We see by the Albany papers that a prominent gentleman of that city has commenced a suit against a druggist upon the principle involved in the Ohio liquor law though not for selling liquor. The wife of the gentleman referred to acquired the habit of using laudanum, lost her health, and finally died from the effects of the poison. The husband sues for $10,000 damages, claiming that the druggist sold the laudanum, knowing the purpose for which it was purchased. The vast number of persons who are suffering from use of stimulants of all kinds. As a general thing the habit of using them is acquired under the advice of physicians, who administer opiates to quiet and soothe the patients, resulting in the formation of a habit which cannot be mastered. It is hardly probable that the case will do more than direct the attention of the State and the people to the subject, and that we are confident, will be a very long step toward reform.

WHEN next you need a suit of clothes try S. & J. Snellenburg, Broadway, New Brighton.

The Fourth of July has been a national holiday since the memorable Declaration of Independence. It has been the custom in most country places to give the printers the benefit of relaxation during the week subsequent to and inclusive of that day. The Beaver county papers have agreed to observe this rule and suspend publication during that time; hence no ARGUS will appear on Wednesday of next week. Advertisers must govern themselves accordingly.

How To Enjoy Life.—It is wonderful to what an extent people believe happiness depends on not being obliged to labor. Honest, hearty, contented labor is the only source of happiness, as well as the only guarantee of life. The gloom of misanthropy is not only a great destroyer of happiness we might have, but it tends to destroy life it self. Idleness and luxury produce premature decay much faster than many trades regarded as the most exhaustive and fatal to longevity. Labor, in general, instead of shortening the term of life, actually increases it. It is the lack of occupation that annually destroys so many of the wealthy, who, having nothing to do, play the part of drones, and like them make a speedy exit, while the busy bee fills out its day in usefulness and honor.

EVERYBODY goes to H. Noss, Photographer, Broadway, New Brighton. Get your pictures for the 4th of July.

Female Delicacy.—Above every other feature that adorns the female character, delicacy stands foremost within the province of good taste. Not that delicacy which is perpetually in quest of something to be ashamed of, which makes merit of a blush, and simpers at the false construction which its own ingenuity has put upon an innocent remark. This spurious kind of delicacy is as far removed from good taste, as from good sense; but the high minded delicacy which maintains its pure and undeviating walk alike amongst women as in the society of men, which shrinks from no necessary duty, and can speak when required with seriousness and kindness of things at which it would be ashamed to smile or blush.

The Use of Storms.—The wildest storms of winter do great good by thoroughly removing any noxious gases that may lurk about our cities, and carrying them out to the deep, there to suffer a "sea change," and replacing them with purer air. Air and ocean are the two great physical purifiers of the world. So, while we fasten our garments more tightly around us, and hurry along in the pelting shower flung at us by a boisterous wind, let us think of the healthgiven oxygen that comes on the tempest; and while enjoying the shelter of our roof, think of the good work going on above us in the sky, whether we wake or sleep. We love to think of the mighty operations of Nature going on ceaselessly for the good of man and the mass of living things on earth, when we are passive and powerless; and this wind movement is one of these.

WELL MATED.—July 4th, linen clothing, of good quality, well made, and the reasonable price at which S. & J. Snellenburg sell them. Broadway, New Brighton.

Canned Fruits.—The impression prevails among those who use freely fruits which are put up in tin cans, that they are injured thereby, and this impression is in many cases correct. We have long contended that all preserved fruits and vegetables should be stored in glass, and that no metal of any kind should be brought in contact with them. All fruits contain more or less vegetable acids, and others that are highly corrosive are often formed by fermentation, and the metallic vessels are considerably acted upon. Tin cans are held together by solder, an alloy into which lead enters largely. This metal is easily corroded by vegetable acids, and poisonous salts are formed. Undoubtedly many persons are greatly injured by eating tomatoes, peaches etc., and we advise all our friends who contemplate putting up fruits the present summer to use only glass jars for the purpose.—Boston Journal of Chemistry.

H. Noss takes pictures in all kinds of weather, but it is not so well to choose a day when the sun shines too bright. Come one came all. Broadway, New Brighton.

There is something in the fall of a shower of rain as connected with the inclination to sing. The other evening, there sat on the door sill opposite our window, a little girl, for the space of an hour at least, yet who manifested no disposition to sing till the tiny drops began to fall. Immediately she commenced tuning familiar rhymes, and kept it up as the rain fell faster. We have observed the same inclination to sing in the army, when a rain commenced. The drops would scarcely commence to patter on the canvas roofs, ere in hundreds of the tents would be heard ringing out war lyrics or old familiar church tunes, that the soldiers had learned around the dear homesteads, from which they were then far distant. And what thrilling memories they will call up. And though we could never account, on philosophical principles, for the connection between the fall of rain and an inclination to sing yet the instances are too numerous to doubt of the existence of the principle.

PLENTY of those Fashionable Coats, at $2.75, at R. Steinfeld's.

Why Do Eggs Spoil?—We find lining the shell a thin skin, which, when kept in a healthy condition, by the albumen of the egg, is impervious to air, but if the egg remains too long in one position, the yolk, being heavier than the albumen, gradually sinks through it, and comes in contact with the skin, and having none of the qualities requisite for keeping the skin lubricated and healthy, the skin soon becomes dry and impervious to the air, which penetrates through it to the yolk, causing the mass to rot. Therefore the true plan is to keep the yolk in its central position. By doing this the egg can be preserved for a long time. My plan for accomplishing this, is to take a keg or barrel, and pack the eggs on their sides, end to end, laying a tier first around next to the staves, and so continue until a layer is filled; so on until the barrel is full. Use oats for packing; lar them down as is required to keep them firmly in their place—head up the barrel ready for market. By rolling the barrel about a quarter around every few days, the yolks of the eggs will be kept as required.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., June 25th, 1872.

The Presbytery of Shenango convened in the Presbyterian church in Beaver Falls, pursuant to adjournment June 25th, 1872. Rev. D. H. Junkin, D. D., was elected moderator and Rev. John M. Mealy, of New Wilmington, temporary clerk. The matter of greatest moment was the installation of Rev. James D. Moorhead as pastor of the Beaver Falls church. The salary promised in the call is $1500 per annum; it is paid on the first day of every month. The installation services consisted of a sermon pertinent to the occasion, a charge to the pastor and a charge to the people. Bro. Moorhead is received with great unanimity and cordiality by the church.

Resolutions strongly opposing the use of alcohol and that vile narcotic, tobacco were passed by Presbytery nemine contradicente. Resolutions were passed cordially commending the Homewood and kite, Star and Tallow Candles, Presbyterian church to the benevolence and beneficence of the churches within the bounds of the Presbytery, in their efforts to erect a church building. After the passage of various items of miscellaneous business the Presbytery adjourned to meet in the second church New Castle, on the Tuesday before the meeting of Synod. Adjourned with prayer, the doxology and apostolic benediction.

GENTS' Furnishing Goods, every variety, best and most Fashionable quality always on hand at Bert & Walsh's, clothing house, Broadway, New Brighton.

The Poetry of the Table.—In the first place, a starched and smoothly-ironed table cloth—which if neatly folded after every meal, will look well for several days. Then flowers and fern in flat dishes, baskets, or small vases, or else a tiny nosegay laid upon every napkin. The salt must be pure and smooth. The butter should be moulded into criss-crossed diamonds, shells, or globes, with the paddles made for this purpose. A few pretty dishes will make the plainest table glow;—a small bright colored platter for pickles, horse radish, or jelly; and butter plates representing green leaves are also attractive. A few pennies' worth of parsley or cress, mingled with small scraps of white paper daintily clipped, will cause a plain dish to assume the air of a French entree. A platter of hash may be ornamented with an edging of toasted or fried bread cut into points; and a dish of mutton chops is much more impressive with the bones stacked as soldiers stack their guns, forming a pyramid in the center,—each bone adorned with a frill of cut paper. A few slices of lemon, mingled with sprigs of parsley and slices of hard boiled eggs, form a pretty garnish to many dishes; and nothing could be more appetizing than beef, veal, mutton, or lamb made into mince meat, and pressed into form in a wine glass, then fried in pork fat, with a sprig of green placed in the top of each little cone. The basket of fruit—peaches, pears, grapes or apples, oranges and grapes—should be tastefully arranged and trimmed with leaves and flowers. The bowl of salad should be ornamented with the scarlet and flowers of the tropæolum, their piquant flavor adding zest to the lettuce, with which they can be eaten.

Accident.—A sad accident occurred in New Brighton on Tuesday of last week, near the depot. A man by the name of Dufton, while walking on the track was struck by a locomotive and killed. Our informant was an eye witness to this sad affair and was personally acquainted with Mr. Dufton, who leaves a large family to mourn his untimely death.

No blame is attached to the employees having the train in charge, on the contrary our informant—who is a reliable citizen of this place—says that everything was done that could be to check the train. Hardly a week passes that we do not have to chronicle accidents similar to this one. Our citizens should take warning and keep off the track when they know trains are due.—Conservative.

Domestic Scandal—Stop it,—There is one foible among housekeepers that cannot be too severely reprobated. It is a contemptible itching for a knowledge of their neighbors' affairs. This curiosity leads some to encourage and listen to the scandalous prattle of their own servants concerning the domestic affairs of other families in which they have been employed.

Servants are always ready to take advantage of the slightest advance towards familiarship on the part of the mistress; and when they find one weak enough to relish a relation of the vices and follies of others, the appetite will always be administered to so long as prolific brain can coin a lie. Mistresses should recollect, while encouraging this practice, that their own household affairs will no doubt be served up, with no less exaggeration or defect, whenever their domestics pass into another family. Two or three instances have lat ly come under our knowledge where comfort and reputation have been sacrificed by falsehoods propagated by female servants.

And where is the remedy for this evil? It lies in every head of a family. That tatling tendency should be stopped in every commencement; and if a refusal to listen to the scandalous catalogue of private weakness or error were accompanied by a severe reprimand, society would be more benefitted.

Put Flowers on Your Table.—Set flowers on your table—a whole nosegay if you can get it, or but two or three, or a single flower—a rose, a pink, a daisy. Bring a few daisies or buttercups from your last field work, and keep them alive in a little water; aye, preserve but a bunch of clover or a handful of flowering grass one of the most elegant of nature's productions, and you have something on your table to remind you of God's creation, and give you a link with the poets that have done it most honor. Put a rose, or a lily, or violet on your table, and you and Lord Bacon have a custom in common, for this great and wise man was in the habit of having flowers, in season, set upon his table, we believe, morning, noon, and night—that is to say for all his meals; for dinner, in his time, was taken at noon—and why should he not have flowers at all meals, seeing that they were growing all day. Now here is a fashion that will last forever, if you please—never changes with silks, velvet, and silver forks, nor dependent upon caprice or some fine lady or gentleman who have nothing but caprice and changes to give them importance and a sensation. Flowers on the morning tables are especially suited to them. They look like the happy wakening of creation; they bring the perfumes of the breath of nature into your room; they seem the very representative and embodiment of the very smile of your home, the graces of its good morrow; proofs that some intellectual beauties are in ourselves, or those about us, some Aurora (if we are so lucky as to have such a companion) helping to strew our lives with sweetness, or in ourselves some masculine wilderness not unworthy to possess such a companion or unlikely to gain her.

On Tuesday evening the commencement concert was given in the M. E. Church, for which the most ample preparations had been made, and there was a very large and appreciative audience present. It was a marked and satisfactory feature of the programme, in which all the actors excelled in all their especial pieces. The audience was charmed and delighted—applauding to the very echo.

Wednesday morning Miss Woodroffe took charge of arithmetic class B. Prof. Townsend of algebra class No 1; Miss Magee of the class in natural theology The examinations were of a high order. Miss Emma Patterson of Bridgeport, O., and Miss Jennie Warren of Beaver, Pa., were the essayists. Master John Locke was the declaimer and the Misses Shugart and French the musicians. Miss Ada Morton read the paper, full of spice and wit. The corner stone of the new college building was laid in the afternoon by the Odd Fellows of Beaver with imposing ceremonies. A large concourse of people were present to witness the deposit of the little tin box, containing our county and Pittsburgh newspapers, and a catalogue of the officers and students of the Institute, in the cavity excavated in the stone for it, and the laying upon it of the corner stone. Dr Dempsey spoke. The following ode was then sung:

Deep in the quarries of the stone,
Amid vast heaps of other rock;
In darkness hid, to art unknown,
We found this rude and shapeless block
Now shaped by art, its roughness gone,
And fit this noble work to grace,
We lay it here, a corner stone,
Chosen and sure, in proper place.

Within this stone there lies concealed
What future ages may disclose,
The sacred truths, to us revealed
By Him who fell by human foes.
On Him this corner stone we build.
To Him this edifice erect;
And still, until this work is fulfilled,
May Heaven the workman's ways direct.

In the evening the Alumnae Association reunion was held. A large number of former graduates were here, and much pleasure was derived from their meeting.

Washington County.—On a former occasion we expressed a desire that our friends of Washington county would recognize "the fitness of things" by putting only one Assemblyman in nomination. Our just expectations in this behalf they have disregarded. In addition to this they have foreclosed our aspirations for Senatorial honors, so far as their action is concerned, having given the second instructions of their county to Senator Rutan. We are aware that our present Senator is popular in the county—as indeed in the whole district so far as personal is concerned. On that ground we could not object so much to their expressing themselves, if it was not accompanied by bargain or barter. Ever since last winter, however, it has been asserted that he was not only to be endorsed by Washington, but that Washington in return would get two members of Assembly. We have no special interest in the success of our candidates—personally it makes little difference who represent us. But on behalf of our county we say we have a right to have a fair hearing in the Senatorial conference; and that we have an unqualified right to two representatives in the House.

The natural assignment of Washington would be with Green and Fayette. She has been attached to our district to be taken care of. She is rather a lucky county. The President has a relative living within that county. Under this influence, and against the sentiment of the Republicans of Western Pennsylvania he has appointed one of her citizens Marshal of the Western District of Pennsylvania. He has assigned another of her citizens to a Judgship. These rare streaks of luck may account in part for her lofty pretensions. If so, we must look over them with some allowance. For, after all, we entertain but kindly feelings for our Washington county friends. But few of them are known to us personally; those few, however, are favorably known. We hope for nothing but fraternity between us. But this much we would submit for their reflection. We lost one of our Assemblymen last year, and had not the balance of the district done better than Washington, we would have lost more than one. We believe that by putting two members on the ticket this year from that county we would jeopardize the whole ticket. If such a course is determined upon we would like to hear some good reason for it. What does our neighbor of The Reporter say on the subject?—Butler Eagle.

A GREAT many persons complain about corns and bunions, but never stop to inquire what causes them; now here we have it, nearly the whole cause is in not having Boots and Shoes that fit neatly. If you wish your feet free from them get your shoes of Umstead & Hartzog, who will guarantee a good fit. They have just received a nice assortment of Shoes, Gaiters and slippers, call and see them, Broadway, New Brighton. je5;tf

Time and enlightened experience have shown that certain substances formerly used and relied on in medical practice, are unnecessary and dangerous; yet some of these substances have found their way into medical compounds. Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters, however, contain nothing injurious, being composed exclusively of vegetable substances from California, for all disorders of the liver, kidneys, bladder, skin, and digestive organs, and for purifying the blood, they are the most wonderful remedy known.

Summer Drinks.—Ice water should be drank but sparingly. A most excellent substitute for it is pounded ice taken in small lumps into the mouth and allowed to dissolve upon the tongue. This will prove very refreshing and much more enduring in its effects.

Lemodade is a simple and grateful beverage. To make it; Roll the lemons on something hard till they become soft; grate off the rinds, cut the lemons in slices and squeeze them in a pitcher (a new clothes pin will answer for a squeezer in lieu of something better); pour on the required quantity of water and sweeten according to taste. The grated rinds, for the sake of their aroma, should be added too. After mixing thoroughly, set the pitcher aside for half an hour; then strain the liquor through a jelly strainer, and put in the ice.

Travelers who find it inconvenient to use lemons can carry a box of lemon sugar prepared from citric acid and sugar, a little of which in a glass of ice-water will furnish quite a refreshing drink, and one that will help oftentimes to avert sick-headache or billousness. Citric acid is obtained from the juice of lemons and limes.

Perry is a delicious beverage made from cherries and will keep a year or more. Take six pounds of cherries and bruise them; pour on a pint and a half of hot water, and boil for fifteen minutes; strain through a flannel bag, and add three pounds of sugar. Boil for half an hour or more, or until the liquid will sink to the bottom of a cup of water (try it with a teaspoonful of the liquid) then turn into jelly cups and cover with paper dipped in the white of an egg.

To prepare the drink: Put a spoonful of the jelly into a goblet of water, and let it stand about ten minutes; then stir it up and fill with pounded ice. Currants and raspberries made into a "shrub" furnish a pleasant and cooling drink when mixed with ice-water. Pounded ice is also an agreeable addition to a saucer of strawberries, raspberries, or currants. Pound it until it is almost as fine as snow, and spread it over the berries. With fruit it is also an excellent substitute for cream.

Water ices are always acceptable. Those made of lemon, orange, currants, strawberries, raspberries, and pineapple, are much improved by adding the stiff beaten whites of four eggs to every two quarts of the liquid. Put it in just as it is turned into the freezer, and it will freeze in a foam.—Scribner's for July.

CAUTION.—Every genuine box of Dr. McLANES LIVER PILLS bears the signature of FLEMING BRO'S., Pittsburgh Pa., and their private United States Stamp. ☞ "Take no other." The market is full of imitations. Apr3:6m.

GREEN apples and unripe fruit will soon appear on our streets, and as a natural consequence, obituary notices about "we had a little one," will become more plentiful. But nevertheless, the sale of Mens', Youths', Boys', and Children's clothing goes on at the clothing store of S. & J. Snellenburg, New Brighton.

Prohibition County Convention.—Under existing laws and their administration by the parties in power during the twenty-five years last past, the liquor traffic has doubled, and now millions of money have been squandered, thousands of precious lives are lost, and untold misery and wretchedness inflicted yearly by this withering, blighting curse. So terrible has become its influence in debauching our people, corrupting public officers, and lowering the standard of public morals, that thoughtful men are compelled to admit that the permanency of our free institutions are in jeopardy.

The liquor traffic now exists as a State policy, and can be changed only by voting for and electing legislators and officers opposed to the continuance of such policy.

The prohibition of this traffic is now the most important issue before the people, whether considered from a financial moral or political stand point; and yet existing parties refuse to even make relief or issue.

Convinced by these and other facts that interest, duty and patriotism alike demand that this traffic shall be prohibited by law, and equally well satisfied that existing parties, who will not make it an issue, cannot be relied on to do this, the Prohibitionists of Pensylvania have no resource but to organize for the purpose of carrying this issue to the polls.

All favorable to the nomination and election of officers pledged to the prohibition of this traffic in intoxicating drinks, and who indorse the platform adopted at Columbus, Ohio, on the 22d of February, A. D. 1872, and reaffirmed at Altoona, June 14th, 1872, are earnestly invited to meet in mass convention at the Court House in Beaver, on Monday, the 29th day of July, A. D. 1872, at 2 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates to be supported at the ensuing October election.

By order of County Committee.

Editorial Convention.

MR. EDITOR:—Thursday morning I took train at Rochester and, after a ride of six hours, arrived at Erie, when we made a general rush for the Reed House so as to be in good time to get a pleasent room in close proximity to the dining department; but the observing and accommodating clerk, judging from my appearance that I needed exercise, assigned me to a room as near the roof as possible, so that I could get it in going up and down stairs.

After washing and a good dinner, I found a pleasant companion and started out to see the city. My companion having some business to transact with the firm of Ashley & Vincent, publishers and book-binders, we called in and were shown through their establishment and were surprised at its extent and the perfect system with which it is conducted. Mr. Vincent then proposed to show us around and, among other things, showed us the Erie Orchestrion, which is an instrument in which there are several combined—one being a brass band complete equal to sixty pieces. Persons visiting Erie, wanting to see a skillful piece of work, should call and see it, if it is in a lager-beer saloon.

The afternoon and evening were spent in various ways by the members of the press—some rambling about the city; some sailing on the lake; and some visiting the gas-wells, which are quite numerous, some parties having introduced the gas from them into their dwellings and use it for cooking and heating as well as for light. Having come to the conclusion that Erie was considerable of a city, we adjourned to the hotel and retired.

Wednesday morning opened with rather a gloomy prospect for an excursion on the lake, as it was both foggy and showery; but we concluded to take the risk of a bad day rather than that of no lake excursion. At a little before nine o'clock the lines were cast off, and the magnificent steamer China—of the Erie & Western Transportation Co.—glided gracefully out of the harbor on to the bosom of the broad lake. The China is one of the largest and finest passenger propellers on the lakes, and is officered as follows: Capt. J. B. Dickson; First Mate, Wm. Evans; 2d Mate, E. Downey; Chief Engineer, E. Root; 1st and 2d Ast. Engineers, C. P. Root and Wm. Tomlinson; Clerk, W. H. Wells. We headed for the Canadian shore, but the weather was so dark and misty that the project of going near that coast was abandoned. We ran five or six miles out, then took a turn outside the peninsula and along the shore east some eighteen miles, then back to Erie, having been out about four hours.

John E. Payne, esq., Manager of the Steam Line, was aboard assisting Capt. D. in making his guests feel at home and enjoy themselves. Also, Miss Emma Garfield, the Elocutionist, who, by request of our worthy Secretary, Mr. Menamin, consented to give a reading, and rendered the Vagabond Roger and I, which was enthusiastically applauded. Kennedy King of Erie was called on and gave the Creed of the Bells and Anabel Lee, and was warmly applauded. Mr. Montgomery of Philadelphia sang John Anderson, My Joe John, in a beautiful chorus and strong tenor voice.

After arriving at the hotel we took dinner, and the Democratic Association went into session at the Court House; and after a short session adjourned to Temperance Hall to meet with the State Editorial Association, which came to order with Mr. H. J. Smith, President, in the Chair. Mr. J. B. Gara of E. delivered the address of welcome on behalf of the citizens, and was responded to by the President. After some other preliminaries the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That our thanks are eminently due the President, Superintendent, and officers of the Pennsylvania R. R., the Reading, the Philadelphia & Erie, the Oil creek & Allegheny River, the Alleghany Valley, and the Erie & Pittsburgh Railroads, for the official and personal attention extended to our members and their families during the present excursion, not only in furnishing transportation, but also in the marked willingness with which their courtesies have been distinguished.

Resolved, That we tender the Mayor and city council, and through them to the citizens of Erie, our thanks for the generous and cordial reception extended to us.

Resolved, That we return our acknowledgments of the courtesies officially tendered us by the authorities and citizens of Titusville, and Oil City, and that we shall take pleasure in accepting them.

Resolved, That we return thanks to the Erie & Western Transportation company owners of the Atlantic, Duluth and Pacific lake line, and of the anchor line, for their generous tender of the splendid propeller China, for an excursion on the lake, which was highly enjoyed; more gentlemanly officers than those in there employ are seldom met with.

Resolved, That to our brothern of the Erie Press, for their present efforts for our comfort and entertainment, we would express our feeling of fraternal appreciation.

Resolved, That we acknowledge our indebtedness to the Temperance association of Erie for the use of the spacious Hall tendered by it for our meeting.

The secretary requested the members of the association to send a copy of their paper to Mr. Boyd of the Penn. R. R. at Phila., and the Printed circular at Philadelphia.

There was a fine set table in the evening at the Reed House for the editorial dinner, but the lack of a sufficient number of waiters caused a great deal of inconvenience, and made the supper drag so long, that the President announced that the regular toasts would be cut short adding a request, that they may be printed to show what might have been done. After the banquet the editors and their wives went to Wayne Hall, for a hop, which was got up by the citizens, for the benefit of the association. The hall, which was well filled, was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The company trod a grand march, and then most of the quill jerkers returned to the Reed House. The parlors were thrown open, and as many as wished, waltzed and danced until a late hour.

Thursday morn saw them all scatter off, some to their homes, others to Niagara Falls; and the majority by special train down through the oil regions. All were well satisfied with their trip, and are at well pleased with the kindness of the citizens, of Erie. X

SELECT MISCELLANY.

THE LOVES OF LINCOLN.

Late in 1832, or early in 1833, Mr. Lincoln went to board at a tavern in New Salem, Ill., kept by James Rutledge. Ann Rutledge, the third daughter of this family, was at that time about nineteen, and was probably the most refined woman with whom Mr. Lincoln had then ever been conversant—a modest, delicate creature, fascinating, were it only by the force of contrast with the rude people by whom both were surrounded. All witnesses unite in praising her. Mrs. Hardin Bale, a woman of the neighborhood who knew her well, said: "She had auburn hair, blue eyes, fair complexion, was a pretty, kind, tender, good hearted woman, beloved by all who knew her." McNamar, Hill and Lincoln all courted her at the same time. The man who spoke of her described her with yet more enthusiasm. She had a sad story. When little more than seventeen she became engaged to McNamar. He left her to go to the assistance of his parents in the State of New York, promising to return as soon as possible; but weeks grew to months, and even years, and still he did not come. She loved him at first, but the love seems to have cooled with his long absence, and at last she responded to the passionate and impetuous attachment of young Lincoln. But she felt she could not marry until she could obtain a release from McNamar. She wrote to him in vain, as she had waited in vain for his coming, and in 1835, she died, as some say, of brain fever induced by her anxiety of mind.

In her grave young Lincoln was wont to declare his heart was buried. A few days before her death he was summoned to her bedside; but what happened in that solemn conference was known only to him and the dying girl. But when he left her and stopped at the house of John Jones on his way home, Jones saw some of the most terrible distress in his face and his manner. When Ann actually died and was buried, his grief became frantic; he lost all self-control, even the consciousness of his own identity, and all his New Salem friends pronounced him insane. "He was watched with especial vigilance during storms, fog, damp and gloomy weather, for fear of an accident. At such times he raved piteously, declaring, among other expressions of his woe, 'I can never be reconciled to have the snow, rains and storms beat upon her grave.'" His friend, Bowling Green, took charge of him, and it was several weeks before it was considered safe to let him go back to his old haunts and his old employments. He was never precisely the same man again. He had always been subject to periods of great mental depression, but after this they were more frequent and alarming. It was then he began to repeat the poem which, poor in itself, is immortalized by his adoption of it: "Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?" A few weeks after the death of Ann Rutledge, her other lover returned to New Salem, and he seems to have mourned for her as deep, if not as wildly, as did Lincoln.

One would perhaps extract a grief like that of Lincoln, as passionate as was his nature; but dead is dead. It has been said that in Ann's grave, he himself walked the earth in those luminous spots of his, a very real and not an ideal man. In 1836, a little more than a year after Ann Rutledge's death, he saw again a Miss Mary Owens, whom he had met and somewhat admired three years before. She was a large, handsome, matronly looking woman of 28 or 29—a very different type of person from the gentle, sensitive Ann. Miss Owens seems to have prided herself much on her "education," which she says was different from that of Lincoln; but her letters are written in a high-flown, inflated style, which is far from conveying an impression of superior intellectual power. Lincoln asked her to marry him, but she waited awhile, in order to become thoroughly acquainted with him. She did not think him coarse or cruel, but she did think him thoughtless, careless, not altogether as polite as he might be; in short, as she herself expresses it, deficient in those little links which make up the great chain of woman's happiness." The "little links" being of so great importance to her, she doubtless decided wisely. After this decision, Lincoln was guilty of the one meanness of his life, of which, but for the researches of the biographer, we should have been spared the knowledge. He wrote a letter to Mr. O. H. Browning, telling him the story of his acquaintance with Miss Owens in a manner most unfair and humiliating to the lady. Mr. Lamon speaks of its publication as a "painful duty."

It would have been, I think, more to the breach than in the observance; but it has told the truth, if the heavens fall, seems to have been the motto. Mr. Lincoln's final conclusion was that he should never marry, since he "should never be satisfied with any one who would be block-head enough to have him." But neither buried heart nor wounded pride sufficed to keep him very long from the toils spread by feminine fingers. In 1839 Miss Mary Todd came to live with her sister, Mrs. Ninian W. Edwards, at Springfield, where Mr. Lincoln was then a resident. She was young, just twenty-one, well connected and, according to Mr. Lamon, "high-bred, proud, brilliant and witty, and with a will that asserted every one to her purpose." She seems to have taken captive the future President the moment she made up her mind it would be expedient to do so.

Mr. Lincoln was a rising politician, fresh from the people, and possessed of great power among them; Miss Todd was of aristocratic and distinguished family, able to lead through the awful portals of "good society" whom soever they chose to countenance. It was thought that a union between them could not fail of numerous benefits to both parties. Mr. Edwards thought so; Mrs. Edwards thought so; and it was not long before Mary Todd herself thought so. She was very ambitious, and even before she left Kentucky announced her belief that she was "destined to be the wife of some future President."

For a little while she was courted by Douglass as well as by Lincoln; but she is said to have refused the "Little Giant" "on account of his bad morals." Being asked which one of them she intended to have, she answered, "the one that has the best chance of being President." She decided in favor of Lincoln, and in the opinion of some of her friends, aided to no small extent in the fulfilment of the prophecy which the bestowal of her hand implied.

"Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Todd's sister, says that Lincoln was "charmed with Mary's wit, and fascinated with her quick sagacity, her nature and her culture." They were speedily engaged, and their marriage was only a question of time. But somehow the Lincoln love affairs seem never to have been altogether satisfactory. A Miss Matilda Edwards presently made her appearance. She was the sister of Mr. Ninian Edwards, a fresh young beauty, whom Lincoln saw and seeing, loved. The affair with Miss Todd, according to the Edwardes, according to Stuart, according to Herndon, according to Lincoln himself, was "a policy match," but this was love. [Gentle ghost of sweet Ann Rutledge, did your spirit eyes grow sad?—Mr. Edwards tried to marry his sister to Speed, she preferred Mr. Shuyler Strong, and presently married him.

Lincoln had been restrained by a sense of honor from declaring his passion, though any words would probably have been uttered in vain. But now conscience assailed him. He concluded, with great agony of mind, that he would be doing Mary Todd a grievious wrong were he to marry her after his heart had thus wandered from her. He went to her accordingly, and told her the whole story. She released him from his engagement, and then some parting endearments followed, and, as a natural result of those endearments, a reconciliation. [Moral—When you wish to break off your engagement with a woman, don't kiss her a good bye.] Lincoln and Mary were again engaged; everything was ready for the marriage, even the supper. Lincoln failed to meet his engagement, the cause being insanity. His friend, Speed, took him to Kentucky, and kept him there until he had recovered.

Mr. Herndon thinks that Lincoln's insanity grew out of most extraordinary complication of feelings—aversion to the marriage proposed, a counter attachment for Miss Edwards, and a new access of unspeakable tenderness for the memory of Ann Rutledge. But after his recovery and return to Springfield it was not long before he married Miss Todd. She told him that though she released him from the engagement her own feelings for him remained unchanged. He went to see his friend J. H. Matheny, and said to him, "Jim, I have to marry that girl." At another time Lincoln told him that he was driven into the marriage—that it was a thing planned by the Edwards family. However, through weakness or through tenderness, he seems to have submitted to his fate, and in 1842 Mary Todd became Mrs. Lincoln. Such is the complicated story of the loves of Lincoln.

FLOWERS ON THE GRAVE.

Speech of Rev. T. De Witt Talmage at the Academy of Music, New York, on the Evening of Decoration Day.

Fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters wives and children of the men who died for their country:

I give you my right hand, to-night, in sympathy, condolence, and congratulation. An old fable speaks of one who went, and says that where her tears fell beautiful white flowers sprang up. Our nation has went bitterly for the fallen braves, and from her tears maryads of white flowers have sprung to-day, flinging their whiteness and fragrance over all the soldiers' mounds and cemeteries from San Francisco to Canada. But the flowers in the wreathes, and crosses, are not all white. Behold the crimson and the red, and tell me from whence they sprang. Seed for them was planted at Antietam and Shiloh, and South Mountain planted in trenches, covered with the iron rake of battle, and putting forth their red and fiery bloom to-day, suggestive of the blood spilled, and of the ruddy flash of the musketry. The superstitious are afraid of grave-yards by night; but I think that the most timid child would not be afraid to walk in Cypress Hill to-night, for the place is so fragrant now. The children have been there with flowers for father's grave; and the poor widow, who had but two sprigs of geranium, has been out to offer them as the best gift she could afford. If the spirit of our loved ones come back and walk about the places where their bodies lie waiting for the resurrection, they can something of how much they are loved and missed. But they, too, Lord God, who seest the orphan's midnight pillow, and who doth behold the widow watch her children since their main support hath been gone, needst no flowers to tell Thee how much they are missed. Lord God of Gettysburgh, Lord of Hosts, who unsheathed the sword from the scabbard of cloud on Lookout Mountain, wipe away the tears of a nation's sorrow.

We lay aside all our political differences to-night. If I thought that this meeting was called in any spirit of political partisanship, I should not be here. In some quarters demagogues have tried to make capital out of such gatherings; but I do not believe in bartering with the bones of our country's martyrs. They have done enough work. Let them sleep until the Lord of Resurrection wakes them up. Neither would I have such remains devoted to the stirring up of the old feud between the North and the South. When Johnson's army and General Sherman's army shook hands near Raleigh, that was the end of the strife. Let nothing be said or done to excite collision. Surely there has been blood enough shed, and groans enough have been uttered, and families enough destroyed, to satisfy the worst man on earth, or the worst demon in the pit. And if amid this holocaust of the dead, any hand shall ever be lifted to tear down the peace established at so much sacrifice, be that hand a Northern or a Southern hand, may it turn white with the snow of an incurable leprosy! Instead of flowers upon such a villian's grave, let the whole nation come and fling upon it a mountain of nettles and night shade.

At Arlington Heights, just after the war, a Southern woman brought a wreath of flowers and placed it on the grave of a Southern soldier. A Northern man, wearing epaulettes, took up the wreath and tore it to pieces, and threw it to the winds. He wore epaulettes, but he was unworthy the name of soldier. A real soldier would not do such a mean and cowardly thing as that. I would that all the wreaths that have ever been laid upon the graves of Northern or Southern dead, might be lifted and linked together, each garland a link, and that with this long, bright, pleasant chain of roses and lilies, the whole land might be encircled, binding it into everlastnge unity and good feeling. That is the only kind of a chain that Americans will ever consent to wear; and woe be to the government that tries to forge any other.

But some of the soldiers' graves have been missed to-day, notwithstanding ten thousand hands have been busy stripping the gardens and hot-houses for this Christian offering; and so I bring three or four garlands of my own. The first I let down into the rivers and sea, above the coral pillow of those whose bodies have never been found. They fell from the gunboats, and the fire rafts; they dropped from the cavalry horses crossing the Potomac; they went down in the storm off Cape Hatteras; they were shot down from the ship's rigging going into New Orleans. They never came home. They were buried without shroud or funeral psalm—the hearse thunder of battle their only litany. I know that the sarcophagus of coral in which they sleep is exquisite, and that the seaweed which pillows their head is beautiful; but that is not enough. With loving hands we let down into the wave this garland of our affection and gratitude, committing their bodies to Him at whose command the sea shall give up its dead!

Another garland. The most suggestive inscription above thousands buried in the national cemeteries at Gettysburgh and Richmond is the word UNKNOWN. Even the names have been lost. Unknown, though father, and mother, and wife, and child waited long for their coming. Unknown, though they gave their life for their country: Unknown to man, but known to God, who hath made records of all their wounds, and tears, and sacrifices. Their graves have not been forgotten to-day. The hand of the government they died to save, has strewn flowers there. But let us go to-night along by the swamps of Chickahominy, and through the Wilderness, and along by the Western river and thickets and jungles, where men died without a pillow, and came to hasty burial, or perhaps to no burial at all. No one to close his eyes. No one to hold the dying hand. No one to take the farewell message. "Unknown."—"Unknown." Let us search them out. We find them to-night and cry, "Hail! resting place of the patriot dead! take this garland of the nation's thanks and of the nation's love, wet all day long with the rain, the heavy rain of a nation's tears."

I bring another garland. Let it be of the richest and most aromatic flowers. Let there be in it amaranth and green branches. Let it be broader than any everplaced on the brow of Roman conqueror. We will place it not on the graves of the dead, but on the brow of the living soldiers and sailors of the Grand Army of the Republic. We shall not forget your deeds because you have put off your soldiers' uniform. We can not pay you for the privations you have suffered, for the arm that was shattered, for the eye put out, for the health lost; but everlasting thanks be yours in the name of a Union restored, a Government re-established, a race redeemed from servitude, so that from the time the sun rises on our eastern coast until it sets behind the Sierra Nevadas, its burning eye can not discover a single bondsman. Thank God! that in all this land, all are free now, with the determination by the help of God and of our own right arm, of always being free!

But the brightest flowers that were put on the graves to-day will soon wither. The petals will scatter and even those called the "everlastings" will be dimmed. So that, if the nation has nothing but flowers to bring as an offering, she might as well put her hand on her mouth and hide her head. We want a wreath of other materials, a wreath of greenbacks, large enough to encircle all the soldiers' asylums and homes. Not so much posies as bread. It is high time that it ceased to be necessary for the man who lost an arm, or a leg, in fighting our battles, to have to grind hand organs at the street corner for a living; and the women whose husbands perished in battle at the point of the sword, should not themselves have to die at the point of the needle.

For all time to come let this memorial day be observed. Strew flowers on all the soldiers' graves. Strew them over the heads that ached, and over the hearts that bled, and over the feet that blistered in the weary march. O ye throng of departed heroes! Stoop down and breathe this perfume of a nation's thanks. Stoop down and take this kiss of a nation's love. Stoop down and hear this shout of a nation's redemption.

May God hasten the time when war itself shall be buried. The grim old breaker of hearts! Carry him out on an old rusty shield. Let down his miserable carcass in the most desolate place of all the earth. Bury his sword with him. Heap on him grave stones and broken chariot wheels. Let widowhood and orphanage cap their hands at his burial, and the words howl for his requiem. "This is the second death."

This shall a Universe sing hereof,
In Place and Time, Father, Friend!
Where heaven's high arch resounds again
With glad acclaim each Good will to men.

Fanny Jordan and the King.

A sharp young American woman, Miss Fanny Jordan, whose maiden name was Chumley, has been playing a pretty and profitable game with the King of Bavaria. His Majesty rarely appears in the capital, but leads an insulated life at his ville of Hohenschwangan, where his chief enjoyment is that of music. The lively adventuress went to the place with the sweet and pretty name, and took lodging at the Golden Bear Hotel, determined upon the conquest of the King. Walking out with her femme de chambre when she saw royalty approaching she fell to drawing the beautiful landscape with all her might. The King, who is proud of the scenery approached the fair artist and opened an affable conversation. When he invited the engaging Fanny to visit his country seat; and gave her a white mare, a diamond bracelet, his portrait framed in solid gold set with emeralds, and other gifts of great value. Then his uncle Leopold, hearing of the matter, employed two Munich detectives to hunt up the antecedents of the enchantress. Learning his determination, she fled, leaving behind her a large trunk containing "no letters from different lovers. For the last three years she duly has been seeking, and seems naturally finding her fortune in different European capitals. Her last affair, before the Bavarian speculation, was in Berlin, where she did so deviltan unfortunate Colonel that he resorted to forgery to gratify her incessant demand for money, and so was ignominiously cashiered. The Bavarian detectives having found her in a retired village, allowed her to make choice between leaving the country or going to prison. So she continued her flight into Switzerland, with $10,000 in money and valuables, the net proceeds of her Hohenschwagen speculation.

Dubious Diseases.

For years, we might say for centuries, consumption has been classed among the diseases of doubtful cure, consequently, people when they have supposed it to exist, have abandoned all hope of staying its progress, and have allowed the victims to suffer on until death gathers them into its vortex. Not so now. Dr. Keyser, with Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure, has established the truth that Consumption, like any other disease, has its remedy. Not one or two sporadic cases, that perhaps would have recovered under the hand of nature alone, but dozens and scores of unhealthy people have been rescued from the grasp of this fell destroyer of the human family, and live to bless Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure to their latest breath. So much is this the case that there is hardly a family on whose mantel piece may not be seen the famous bottle bearing this inscription: "Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure, or Pulmonary Restorative," a name significant enough, and before the contents of which incipent pulmonary maladies vanish like noxious mists before the morning sun. Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure is a health giving elixir, which none who ever used it can deem of dubious value. It can be had at the Doctor's Great Medicine Store, 167 Liberty street, Pittsburgh, $1.50 per bottle, 6 for $5.00. Dr. Keyser's private consulting office in the rear of his store, from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

☞ In Ottawa county, Kansas, recently, a child two years old died from being bitten by a rattlesnake—The head of the snake with three or four inches of the body, had been severed with an ax, and was supposed to be lifeless, and the child happened to stop near the severed head and was bitten, and died in about four hours.

☞ CAUTION!—Druggists are sometimes careless, and in purchasing their stock get hold of an imitation of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, or a counterfeit article, and innocently sell it for genuine. Never buy a package without seeing that the name, printed upon it is Dr. Sage's Catarrh REMEDY, and not Dr. Sage's Catarrh Cure, New Catarrh Cure, Catarrh Reliever, or some other similar sounding name. Also that it has printed both upon the wrapper and also upon the U. S. Government Stamp, which is upon it the words "R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y." In this way you will be sure to get the genuine. 571.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE — FREE FROM — ALCOHOL

PURE — WALKER'S — CALIFORNIA

D. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS

Vinegar Bitters are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the Great Blood Purifier and a Life-giving Principle, a Perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition; enriching it, refreshing and invigorating both mind and body. They are easy of administration, prompt in their action, certain in their results, safe and reliable in all forms of disease.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion. Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. In these complaints it has no equal, and one bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

For Female Complaints in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, and in all Bilious Diseases.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worm, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurf, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are rapidly dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Grateful thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist: There is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy estimate of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and decayed deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

Mechanical Diseases. Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Painters, Type-setters, Gilders, Stone-cutters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially the tributaries of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country, during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are mainly caused by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In the treatment, a purgative, assisted by an occasional dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, is generally necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to these Bitters, as they will promptly remove the dark-colored, putrid matter with which the bowels are loaded, and cause the secretions to assume a healthy condition, restoring the liver and other abdominal viscera to their proper functions.

Scrofula or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Tumors, Chronic Sores, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., in these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters act on all the above cases in a similar manner. By purifying the blood they remove the cause, and in restoring active the effects of the inflammation (the tubercular deposits in the affected parts receive health, and a permanent cure is effected.

The properties of Dr. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, and Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

The Aperient and mild Laxative properties of Dr. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are the best safe guard in all cases of eruptions and malignant fevers, their bi-sanus, healing, and soothing properties correct the humors of the fauces. Their Sedative properties allay pain in the nervous system, stomach, and bowels, relax from inflammation, wind, gout, cramps, etc. Their Counter-Irritant influence extends throughout the system. Their Anti-Bilious properties stimulate the liver, in the secretion of bile, and as discharges through the bowels, and are superior to all remedies as agents, for the cure of Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, etc.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system that forearmed.

Directions.—Take of the Bitters on going to bed at night from a half to one and one half wineglassful. Eat good nourishing food, such as beefsteak, mutton chop, venison, roast beef, and vegetables, and take out-door exercise. They are composed of purely vegetable ingredients, and contain no spirit.
